

Many prevailing notions about Lake Chad, in Africa, have been upset by the explorations of Philip Brockelhurst, an Englishman. He traversed the lake in a rush raft with a baboon as his only companion.

